Sharpened perfection

Trends in our environment are a living language: they respond to changing the Client's tastes.

Their presence is just as important in lighting systems for the automotive industry. Characterised by their cyclical nature, they move seamlessly between softer or sharper shapes. Now designers are looking more and more to squares and rectangles in their work.

Pioneering in trends

The voice of the market is what guides the OE Industry design team. Through solid analysis, they prove that the market for transportation design can effectively draw from the automotive industry.

This allows them to reconcile trends with the immutability of existing solids in nature. This is how they perfect the aesthetics of the headlights they create.

Symmetry of perfection

The inspiration for the NEXTQ4 headlights regular and sharp features came from technology and the electronic devices that go with it. Just as one sees technical precision when looking at the interior of a computer, the OEI headlights represents architectural order.

It is precisely the language that speaks through the design of the lighting exposes its luminous qualities as a pioneering product on the market.

Designed with attention to the smallest detail, it allows you to get ahead of the lighting manufacturers. This brings products from OE Industry closer to the automotive and passenger car sectors.

The NEXTQ4 headlights is an expression of the ambition of the OE Industry brand. To become a wordless story about values such as reliability and co-creation technologies of tomorrow.
